

How to write essays beautifully and correctly

In this article we will tell you how to write an essay beautifully and competently. So, a well-written essay should consist of three main parts:

- Introduction
- Content
- Conclusion

The task of the essay is to reveal the theme in accordance with the questions posed.

The main part

We will also stick to three (classical) main parts: introduction, content, conclusion.

Introduction

This part introduces the reader to the topic of the essay and leads to the disclosure of the main aspects of the work. You can describe the title of the theme of the essay, reveal the essence of the title, ask a question, the answer to which will be disclosed in the main part and summarized in the conclusion.

You can begin with any quote, rhetorical question, typical situation, references to the opinion of an authoritative source, creating a special emotional mood relating to specific facts of the author's biography, etc. It is necessary to lead the reader to the formulation of the problem.

Be sure to use the word "question" or "problem" in the text. The problem should fully cover the material considered in the work.

Content

This is the main part of the work, it reveals the theme, explains the essence of the work. Avoid simple retelling, try to describe everything in your own words. Disclosure of the topic is the main task of the content part of your work.

Final part

Summarizes the entire work, sums it up, it concludes on the topic of the work. The final part doesn't have to be big, but it's important that it's complete. In the final paragraph you can smooth out all the shortcomings of your essay, the confident final part of the essay always puts everything on the shelves.
